

A group of people, including men, women, and children, are gathered at night for a memorial service. They are kneeling or crouching around a large number of lit white candles on the ground. The scene is dimly lit, with the primary light source being the candles. In the foreground, a woman in a red jacket is lighting a candle. To her right, a man in a dark jacket is also lighting a candle. In the background, several other people are visible, some holding lit candles. A large pink orchid in a dark vase is positioned in the center-right of the image. The overall atmosphere is solemn and reflective.
